Only Judge Landis remains on the ground to reopen the issue.

VOYON OF FORTY HOURS CLOSES AT ST. BRIGIDS CHURCH

The devotion of the Forty Hours which opened at St. Brigid's Church yesterday morning came to a solemn close Sunday evening when a congregation which crowded the church from the altar railing to the doors was in attendance. Many persons were unable to find seats during the service.

The pastor, the Rev. David Powers, was assisted in the service by twelve visiting clergymen. The visiting priests were: the Rev. Fathers James Ward, James Wade, A. A. Burke, Martin Varley and Joseph Graham, all of Dayton; John Shawe of Yellow Springs; Charles Ertel of Wilmington; Edward McGinty of Jamestown; John Mettsdorf of Springfield; William Casey of Dayton; Edward Quinn of Springfield, and Father Pledge a member of the faculty of the University of Dayton.

Eighty-eight boys and little girls, the latter wearing white frocks and carrying flowers participated in the service. Celebration of Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament concluded the service, with the Rev. Charles Ertel, celebrant; the Rev. Edward Quinn, deacon and the Rev. Joseph Graham, subdeacon.

HELD FOR REPAIRS

Northland, Cal., Oct. 13.—The United States rigid dirigible Shenandoah, delayed here for repairs, again hung idly to her 174 foot mooring mast this morning and was not expected to take off for Camp Lewis, Washington, her western terminus, until tomorrow because of a storm reported off the southern coast of Alaska. The storm is expected to hit the northwestern part of the United States about the time the giant air liner would have reached here, had she left here today. However, should reports be received of the storm abating the big ship may leave today, it was said.

STEPFATHER OF XENIAN IS DEAD

A. L. Hendrick, 60, of Belmont, died at the Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Sunday.

He was employed as a carpenter at the hospital for some time and several months ago sustained injuries that called for an operation. Death was due to a complication of troubles that set in after his operation.

Mr. Hendrick was born June 9th, 1864. Surviving him are his wife, two nieces and two nephews. He is the stepfather of Mrs. Floyd Anderson of this city.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Belmont home. Burial will be made in Belmont. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge Dayton Chapter.

MORE THAN 300 AT RALLY DAY SERVICE

More than 300 were in attendance at the Rally Day exercises held by the Trinity M. E. Sunday School Sunday morning.

All of the classes had large attendances and services of the hour were marked by unusual interest and enthusiasm. An address by Mrs. Emma Zell and special music by the orchestra were features of the program. Three hundred present had been set as the goal for the day and the number exceeded the goal was highly gratifying to the school.

Mr. Elmer Eulless of Chicago, spent several days in Xenia as a guest of relatives. Mr. Eulless is on his way to Atlantic City on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Pramer and children John and Ruth and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson attended the all day meeting at the Caesars Creek Friends Church Sunday.

POSSE CHASES MAN BELIEVED TO BE ONE OF
4 WHO THREATENED COLORED FARMER HERE

A chase through hills and a wooded ravine made by Deputy Sheriff John Baughn and a posse Sunday night, during which officers fired several shots at a fleeing man who refused to halt when commanded to do so, followed what is declared to have been an early morning threatening visit of masked men to the home of William Martin, colored, 29, war veteran, on the Stevenson Road, east of Xenia.

Martin, who is a tenant on a farm belonging to Wheeler Kimbro, colored, of East Church Street, told officers that shortly after he arose at 4:30 Sunday morning an automobile stopped in front of his house and he walked to the front gate. He declared that seated in a Ford sedan were four masked men.

One man whom he described as large and fleshy addressed him.

"Martin," he said, "you can't stay in this neighborhood. You have been bootlegging for Wheeler Kimbro and you will have to get out. We'll come back to see if this order is carried out."

Martin said that he did not answer, and the machine was driven rapidly away.

Officers were not notified of the incident during the day, but Martin said that he told Kimbro, who advised him not to be uneasy. His wife was terror stricken he said, and he took her and their two small children to the home of her mother, Mrs. Vandalia Martin on the Columbus Pike, Sunday afternoon. He declares that several times during the day he caught glimpses of a man in the woods not far from his home.

After dark, he said, his dog began barking and he saw two men running away from the house when he stepped upon the porch. He retired about 8 o'clock and had just lain down he said, when there was a knock on the door. Opening it, he stepped on the porch and saw one man running away.

He said he shouted for them to come back but for answer a shot rang past his ear. The man had turned and shot as he ran.

"I fell to the floor," Martin said, "crawled into the house and got my shot gun. Then I fired twice in the direction of the fleeing man."

Calling Wheeler Kimbro by telephone he reported the incident and Kimbro notified the sheriff.

Deputy Sheriff John Baughn with Special Deputy George Spencer and Motorcycle Patrolman Peter Shagin of the Police force investigated.

Before the arrival of the officers, Martin said two men ran across the pasture field near his home. Deputy Baughn said that officers saw only one man, whom they pursued through the wooded section and a ravine until he was lost from sight. Repeated commands to halt were unheeded, and a number of shots were fired after him. None of them are believed to have taken effect. None of the visitors at night were masked or robed. They were dressed in ordinary dark clothing.

Officers and Kimbro remained about the Martin home until midnight but there was no return of the marauders.

"I am sitting here with my gun in my lap waiting for them to come back. I have been advised to protect my life and property," said Martin, Monday morning.

Martin denies the bootlegging charge. Officers say that they have searched the farm several times but never uncovered any evidence that bootlegging was going on.

Martin said he served over seven years in the 25th U. S. Infantry being discharged in 1919 owing to ill health and that he was wounded during the trouble in Mexico. He said that he received vocational training at Wilberforce University and is specializing in poultry raising.

CHAS. F. GREENLEASE
DIES MONDAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS HERE

Charles F. Greenlease, former well known Xenia business man and for twenty years owner of The Smoke House, a retail tobacco store on South Detroit Street, died at 8:30 Monday morning at his home, 638 North Detroit Street, following a long illness.

More than a year ago Mr. Greenlease sold out his business owing to ill health, but he was never able to regain much of his lost strength. Several weeks ago his condition became worse and he was confined to the house, but apparently became better until last Wednesday when he again took to his bed. His death came while he slept, and was unexpected, as he had eaten his breakfast and appeared bright and cheerful only a short time before.

Mr. Greenlease was born in Jamestown and was the son of the late George F. Greenlease and Mrs. Louise Greenlease. The family has made its home in Xenia for many years. For the last thirty years Mr. Greenlease had been connected with the business on South Detroit Street, of which he was the owner for twenty years. He had never been employed at any other place.

Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. Louise Greenlease, a brother, George, of Cincinnati, and four sisters: Mrs. W. H. Rowe, of Cleveland; Mrs. Warren Rogers, of Dinuba, Cal.; Miss Mary Greenlease, a clerk at the Xenia postoffice and Mabel, at home.

Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday afternoon. The hour for the service has not been decided.

FASCISTI CAUSE
RIOT IN BRITISH
ELECTION RALLY

MacDonald Given Big Ovation By His Admirers.

London, Oct. 13.—Fascisti and communists furnished the first disorder of the brief and brisk campaign which promises more stir than any per-election riot in Trafalgar square.

Lord Ernest Hamilton, indicated that the Fascisti will be active in the campaign in his statement: "The British Fascisti are prepared to come to aid where the independence of voters is threatened by terrorists."

Remy MacDonal, labor leader, departing on a tour which takes him first to Glasgow and which will include 100 speeches before next Friday, was nearly mobbed by his admirers as he made his way through cheering throngs to take a train.

"It's the biggest fight the labor party ever had," MacDonal told his supporters. "We've come to stay. Now is the hour and we will seize it."

The crowd was enthusiastically cheering and singing as he passed through the station gates.

The opposition press today claims the communists will support labor candidates, despite labor's refusal to affiliate with the communist party. The opposition also claims that labor is making overtures to liberals of the left wing.

D. Smith. The trio was arrested Saturday night by Clifford Latimer, patrolman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and taken to Police Headquarters.

SCOUTS TO MEET

Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts, will hold a meeting at the Parish House on Whiteman Street, Tuesday night, at 7 o'clock. It was announced Monday. Scouts are requested to report in uniform, with their haversacks and canteens, and come prepared for an evening's hike.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Wood of Dayton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Custis, of South Detroit Street, Sunday.

YEGGS GET LARGE
HAUL IN DAYTON

Dayton, Oct. 13.—Police are investigating robbery of two safes of more than $3,500 from the Fair clothing store, 28 East Fifth Street, and the attempted robbery of the Horne Boot Shop, 33 South Main Street, last night.

According to information both the robbery of the Fair Store and the attempt at the Horne Boot Shop occurred yesterday afternoon.

A small safe on the first floor and a large safe in the offices of the store on the third floor had been battered open. Mandel Frankel, manager of the Fair Store, was called and his investigation disclosed that about $3,000 on the third floor. The Fair store carries $2,500 burglar insurance and will be partially covered in the loss.

The only clue police have been able to uncover were fingerprints on the doors of the two safes and on the tin money box.

EAST END NEWS

Friends here have received news of the serious illness of Mrs. W. H. Heard, of Philadelphia, wife of the Bishop Heard of the A. M. E. Church. They are well known here.

The General Association (Baptist) will convene in Springfield, O., with the Second Baptist Church, beginning Tuesday, October 14. Rev. E. W. B. Curry is the pastor. Delegates from five associations of the state will be in attendance, namely the Eastern, Western Union, Providence, Northern and North Western. Rev. B. F. McWilliams of Toledo, is the Moderator of this great religious body. Together also will be the Woman's work of these various associations and districts presided over by Mrs. Georgia Miller of Cincinnati, these sessions will hold during this week closing next Sunday afternoon, Oct. 19.

A. J. Whitfield and wife in company with Rev. Burk, wife and daughter, Marjorie motored to Selma Sunday evening and the Rev. Burk preached at the Payne Chapel.

Mrs. Hattie Burgess of East Second Street, has returned from a pleasant trip with relatives in Chicago and returned by the way of Columbus, stopping over a few days there as the guest of Mrs. Walter Jenkins and Mr. Junior Murray, relatives.

Mr. William Jones of the Jamestown press, who has been very ill is much improved.

The anniversary services came to a close last night at Middle Run Church. Rev. Quarles preached "See that ye fall not out by the way," to a crowded house and left for Louisville by way of Indianapolis.

HAD BAD LUCK

"I had a running sore on my leg for nine years, tried all kinds of salves, had several doctors treat it—even had it cut to the bone and scraped—nothing did any good. I was told to try Peterson's Ointment; used three boxes and my leg is entirely healed and smooth as my other leg. Thank you very much for what it has done for me. Yours respectfully, S. H. Crabtree, 3102-A Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. 35 cents a box.

XENIA GIRL WEDS IN PRETTY CEREMONY

The marriage of Miss Edith J. Fudge, eldest daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Fudge, and Mr. Wilbur B. Pancake of this city, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother on North Galloway Street.

Thirty five relatives and close friends of the young couple witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Dr. G. A. Scott of Springfield O. The appointments for the ceremony were attractive in every detail and were carried out in a general color scheme of orchid and white. The ceremony took place in the living room before an improved altar of palms and ferns, flanked on either side by large baskets filled with orchids and white chrysanthemums. The hallway was decorated in fall asters in orchid shade. The guests received in the living room by the bride's mother who wore a handsome gown of grey crepe-de-chine and lace.

Just before the ceremony Mr. J. Frank Ketter, uncle of the bride, sang two selections, "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me" with accompaniment by Miss Mildred Fudge, sister of the bride. As the bride party entered the Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Fudge. Miss Mary Alexander, the maid of honor, entered first. She wore a gown of orchid georgette with trimmings of Mechlin lace and carried an arm bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums. She was followed by Master John Neatherton clad in white who carried the ring concealed in a white rose.

The bride was met at the foot of the stairway by her brother, Mr. Lawrence K. Fudge, who (walked with her to the altar where she was met by the groom and his best man Mr. Bernard Sutton. The bride was attired in a lovely gown of white georgette, with satin trimmings, made in simple, girlish fashion. The tulle veil, which fell to the hem of the gown, was held by a broad band of old lace and caught on either side with orange blossoms. She carried a handsome shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The impressive double ring ceremony was read by Dr. Scott.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. The bride's table, at which places were laid for twelve, was artistically decorated. Suspended from the chandelier were large, white wedding bells from which streamers of white were bestowed to the corners of the table. The wedding cake formed the centerpiece and on either side were crystal baskets filled with pink roses. The place cards were decorated with wedding bells and the favors were white boxes filled with wedding cake. Seated at the table with Mr. and Mrs. Pancake were Misses Mary Alexander, Josephine Pancake, Miriam Kirker, Irene Wilt, Ruth and Mildred Fudge, and Messrs. Bernard Sutton, Lawrence Fudge, Ralph Pancake and J. Frank Ketter. When the wedding cake was cut Miss Mary Alexander was the lucky finder of the diamond and Miss Miriam Kirker the wedding ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Pancake left Saturday evening for an extended wedding trip through the East. The bride's traveling costume was an ensemble suit of fawn skin in material in Morocco brown with fur-trimmed coat and hat and hose to match. Before leaving the house the bride threw her wedding bouquet to the bevy of young women guests and it was caught by Miss Alice Powers, of Springfield.

Upon their return from their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Pancake will make their home in this city where Mr. Pancake is employed as ticket clerk by the Pennsylvania Railroad System. The bride who is a charming young woman, was formerly a student at Miami University where she was a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority, and is a member of the alumni chapter at Dayton. She has recently been employed by the Hooven and Allison Company in this city.

The out of town guests who were present at the wedding Saturday were Mrs. Lulu B. Pancake, Josephine and Ralph Pancake of South Charleston, Ohio. Miss Miriam Kirker of Liberty, Ind., Miss Irene Wilt of Greenville, Ohio, college friends of the bride, Mrs. and Mr. H. G. Holland, and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Curlette of Dayton; Misses Flora Ketter and Alice Powers of Springfield.

AID SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

The hats worn by New York's eight most beautiful young women

Florenz Ziegfeld himself chose these eight from among thousands as the most attractive

THEY were chosen from among thousands of other contestants—these eight girls who represented America's greatest style center, New York, in the National Beauty Contest. The selecting committee was made up of artists and fashion experts headed by Florenz Ziegfeld of the Ziegfeld Follies.

New York's leading modistes and designers all offered their services. The famous beauties chose eight hats created by Patrician to make them look their best.

Beginning today the actual reproductions of these eight hats are on view exclusively at this store. Typifying the very latest in Fall fashions—they aroused a great hubbub of comment and interest on the eventful contest day.

We invite the young women of our city to see them. Perhaps you can secure one of them for your own Fall hat.

LEGAL SPECULATION OF WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN IN CASE OF "NO ELECTION"

There has been much speculation concerning the political and legal consequences in the event that no candidate for President or Vice President wins a majority in the Electoral College next November. The LaFollette candidacy conceivably—but by no means probably—may throw the election of the President into the present House of Representatives and that body might itself be deadlocked, since a majority of all the States is necessary to a choice and none of the presidential candidates is certain of a majority.

There are constitutional lawyers who hold that if no President is chosen the term of President Coolidge will end March 4, 1925; that the new House of Representatives will have no authority to choose a President; that the United States Senate, on the other hand, has the power to elect a Vice President either before or after March 4; that if the Senate should be deadlocked and no Vice President should be chosen the country would be without a Chief Executive for the duration of the deadlock.

Other lawyers maintain that in the event the voters fail to elect a President and a Vice President, Mr. Coolidge, under prevalent common-law principles, will continue in office until the election and installation of his legal successor. Still, other students of constitutional and statutory law are inclined to believe that President Coolidge's present term must end automatically March 4, and that in the event of a Senate deadlock on the vice presidency the Secretary of State would become Chief Executive by virtue of the statute regulating the presidential succession.

SAMPLE OF LABOR PARTY GOVERNMENT

The British Labor Government of Ramsay MacDonald, which has just fallen, came into power in Great Britain last January, when the Conservative Ministry of Stanley Baldwin which had been at the helm only a few months, was dismissed by the House of Commons with a vote of lack of confidence because of its espousal of protection.

The defeat of the Baldwin Administration was the culmination of a Laborite Amendment to the reply to the King's speech from the throne. The amendment declared that it was the duty of the House "respectfully to submit to Your Majesty that Your Majesty's present advisers have not the confidence of the House." The amendment was introduced by John R. Clynes, at present Lord Privy Seal, then deputy leader of the Parliamentary Labor Party. It was adopted by a vote of 328 to 250, after Mr. MacDonald moved closure of the debate.

On January 22 Mr. MacDonald went to Buckingham Palace at the request of the King and accepted the task of forming the new Government of which he became the head. Thus Great Britain came under the domination of a Laborite Government, which included members of the nobility in its make up.

At the time of MacDonald's assumption of power at the request of King George it was realized that at any time by coalition of their vote the Liberals and the Conservatives could overthrow him on a question of high import, for in the general elections of December, 1923, the Conservatives had 259 seats and the Liberals 159 seats, while the Laborites had only 191.

WANT TO SLEEP IN PUBLIC PARKS

Curfew hereafter will sound at midnight for the sojourners in Rittenhouse Square. Mere loafers will have to choose another parking space after that witching hour. But the ban should apply all the way round the clock to those who in any way abuse their privileges and regard a public playground as a free hotel. Each of the city's breathing spaces is at times liable to be monopolized by undesirable citizens, who discourage the patronage of the law-abiding and orderly. It is as much the duty of the city to evict hoodlums as it is to cut the grass, plant flowers or sweep walks. For the facilities of recreation were not meant to be placed at the disposal of tramps unwilling to earn a living and content to browse on a bench as long as police will tolerate their presence. Between these and the deserving poor, society on the defensive has made a distinct and proper cleavage.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

THE PRINCE MAY "SEE THE WHEELS GO ROUND"

The Prince of Wales is to spend a day with Henry Ford, politely declining the invitation to be the guest of Detroit. One can understand his reluctance to encounter curious throngs and alighting deputations; and even though Mr. Ford may have to fire a professor to give him the genealogy of the visitor, there is much that the scion of royalty can learn from the captain of industry. In the capital of Flivverdom the Prince will see and hear a great deal that was not brought to his attention in the measure-domes and paddocks of Long Island. If he wishes to see the wheels go round in one of America's mammoth industrial establishments, this is an excellent opportunity. Mr. Ford, according to the telegram of acceptance, has "consented to arrange the program."

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

ONCE ON A TIME

Once on a time there was a lad
Who thought the world a playground fair;
He fancied all the hearts were glad
And every day was free from care;
Then every night brought slumber deep,
It never bothered him to sleep.

As I have said, once on a time
There was a boy who romped in play,
And thought that trees were meant to climb,
And trouble something far away;

Then he was fond of all things sweet,
It never bothered him to eat.

He saw old people shiver when
Bluff winter came with ice and snow;
He heard the women and the men
Regret that summer had to go;
And winter never bothered him.

Time was that boy could scarce believe
His father's age was forty-three;
He vainly struggled to conceive
Himself, if that he'd live to be;
When every dream was tipped with gold.

He thought that forty-three was old,
Today that lad is forty-three.
How swiftly do the years go by!
No more he dares to climb a tree,
No more he feasts on apple pie;
When winter comes he dreads the cold,
But he denies that he is old!

"Pan-Baked Hamburg": Contributed by Mrs. W. One pound of top of round of beef put through a grinder; add one-half cup of cold water and one teaspoon of scraped raw onion and mix well. Now shape the hamburger steak into four cakes, keeping them the same thickness on the edge as in the center. Heat a cast-iron frying pan very hot and put the meat cakes into it. Let cook one minute, then turn and cook on the other side for one minute. Repeat several times then turn less frequently. In all, let the cakes fry eight minutes. Spread with butter and season with salt before serving.
"Potatoes au Gratin": (Also contributed by Mrs. W.) Put a layer of sliced, boiled potatoes in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Add one teaspoon of butter in bits, season with salt and paprika, then sprinkle a layer of grated, mild, American cheese over all, having this cheese layer one-fourth inch thick or less. Repeat the potato layer, the seasoning, and the cheese layer, till the dish is full. End with the cheese layer and sprinkle one-half cup of cracker crumbs mixed with three tablespoons of melted butter, on top. Slip the dish into a moderate oven to bake for about 20 minutes, or till brown. Serve at once. For a change, use grated raw onion and chopped parsley, or use finely-chopped green or red sweet peppers, in place of the cheese.

"Caramel Pie": (Contributed by Mrs. D.) This is a good recipe to use when one has a cupful of canned or preserved plums left over. Drop the beaten yolks of two eggs into a saucepan off the fire; add one-half cup of sugar and two cups of sweet milk and mix well, then stir in two tablespoons of flour, one-half cup of softened butter and one cup of preserved plums. Put the mixture over the fire and cook till thickened, then flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla and turn the mixture into a baked crust. Cover with a meringue made by beating

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Today's Talks

NEIGHBORS AND ADVENTURES

Nothing palls like monotony, listlessness and a dead interest. If life is worth anything at all, it is worth getting everything out of that you are able to find in it. There isn't time to mistrust another human being or to do him harm. If he can't be your good neighbor, better move to some other clime where you can have a good neighbor.

You don't have to go to some far country or into the woods to experience adventure. The air is full of it. If you breathe deep enough you will feel it. Strangeness, mystery and wonder are all about you.

Buy a banana—but before you eat it—think! Your imagination will be able to weave a regular romance about its growth and gathering. Tropic country, sunshine, interesting workers, steamboats, the sea, merchants, little store-keepers "How much?" "Forty cents a dozen!"

There is hardly a human being but has a thrilling novel locked up in his life. Many have a whole library of material hidden away. Talk to all the people you can get to talk to you. We learn from people in the same way that we learn from books and from moving around. Books are only people put in type on paper.

Scientists tell us that one of the reasons why people die young do not live longer, is because they take so little interest in life and people and things. Keep your interest in your fellowmen warm and hot, and you will add years to your life.

Get everybody related to you in some way or other. I saw Niagara Falls again the other day. I own a part of it. I wouldn't wonder at it more than I do as a part owner. It has a horde of stockowners. Everyone who looks at it and wonders at its beauty and power has a part ownership in it.

CONGRESSMAN BRAND TELLS OF AMERICA'S RELATIONS TO EUROPE IN ARTICLE HERE

Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, who recently returned from Europe where he made an intensive study of conditions, has written interestingly of "America's Relations to Europe" in the following article:

"Did we do the right thing when we refused to join the League of Nations? Have our relations since been the best for us and the best for Europe?"

Any Congressman travelling in Europe as I have this summer, will find these questions before him daily, because the people of Europe are thinking about America. They seem anxious to impress their views upon American officials. To them the United States seems rich and powerful and in position to dictate world policy and each country would have us dictate to meet their pet ideas. One is impressed with the attention paid to an American official which is a reflection of the respect Europeans feel for our government.

Whatever has occurred, we have retained their respect, and our course has touched the affections of the people of the continent, and we are now looked to for guidance as a real friend for what is best and fair to all.

An Englishman said to me: "Let's go it together! Somebody has to run this jolly mess. Somebody always has and always will tell these people how and where. They are children. It's easy if we join hands. Otherwise it's a mess."

An Oriental pleaded thus: "America must help. You are rich. You are powerful. You are unselfish. America is marvelous. We have confidence in you and in no one else. We are ruined and there is no one to guide the way. America refuses to join the League of Nations. What can we do to make you see?"

The Greek puts it this way: "You are very rich. We are very poor. Give us much money. You will receive your reward in Paradise." The Greek is very candid in this case.

In Italy I found a stream of gold coming from America sent by Italian nationals living in the United States. I was not appealed to there. Perhaps Italy is satisfied.

A German foreign official said to me: "How do you people feel toward us now?" My answer was: "Very well indeed, considering." "The same with us," he said and added: "Our people feel well toward everybody except France."

The Germans are shunned by all the allied peoples. They bear their burdens stoically, bravely, with ability and determination to live and prosper.

A French army officer said to me, "We love our friend. We love the boys who came across just in time to save us from our enemy. We can ask nothing. Our friend knows, and at the right moment she will act."

The whole picture politically is somewhat pathetic. Could we have done better if we had joined the League? There may be a lingering doubt in the minds of some after this momentous decision. A study of a few months over there helps one to a conclusion. The doctor who makes a correct diagnosis is halfway toward the cure. What is the matter with Europe? To me, her troubles come from a belief in "conquest," the application of the power of might, the acquisition of property or territory by force. Now, and for thousands of years, Europe has enforced this principle of might, with little of happiness and much of misery as a result.

Is there any hope of writing on the walls of the embassies of Europe "Thou shalt not steal"? Or is this just a sentimental luxury in idealism?

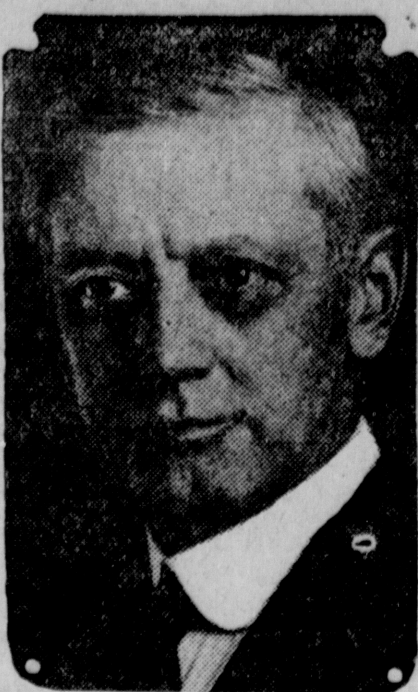

With considerable pleasure I point out that the United States conquered Spain, then gave her twenty million dollars for each of her possessions as we acquired, not because we had to but because we chose to do so. At the close of the World War we took nothing but adopted a policy of giving. Europe saw and marveled. Every acquisition of territory by European nations without the consent of the governed, has been the foundation for another war. The treaty of Versailles making a new map in Europe was a crowning triumph for the principle of conquest, and fortunately the United States made a separate treaty of peace and is not a party to the present situation.

By the Versailles Treaty three million Germans, unreconciled are under the government of Czechoslovakia. New governments were created under the Rumanian government and a million of the same people are now ruled by Jugoslavia. New governments were created between Germany and Russia to keep them apart. Turkey was dismembered and Greece given the western seacoast, including Smyrna, and in the ecstasy of their glorious conquest, the Greeks brought back their banished German-sympathizing king to the throne, which immediately aroused the fear and anger of the French, who straightway found a way to arm the Turks, and with England and Italy apparently acquiescing, the Turks were able to drive the Greeks from Turkish territory, accomplishing the massacre of a million people and drive another million Armenians and Greeks as refugees out of Turkish territory, leaving their property behind.

To finish the picture, the party of the allies in Greece marched the Greek army into the parliament of Greece, demanded and secured the banishment of their king, secured the trial and conviction of the king's ministry and put them up against a wall and shot them to death. Do we wish to be a party to such "Diplomacy"?

The treaty of Versailles cut and carved the territory of the nations of the Balkans and the people were switched from one nation to another at the will of the allies.

Many millions of people of Europe are unreconciled are armed today to the teeth, ready to spring. There are more men today under arms, six years after this war to do away with war than there ever under in Europe except during the world war. To make the present picture of Europe clear, imagine an unsuccessful war in which the United States is loser, and is disarmed, California and Texas given to Canada, the western states given to Canada, the eastern states, divided into several new nations, and the central states allowed to continue as a remnant of the once powerful nation. Then imagine a league formed with all the nations participating to enforce the continuance of this situation.

CHARLES BRAND

And the League of Nations, of Europe was formed to carry out the terms of the treaty of Versailles, and fasten its conditions upon Europe, and America was asked to join because Europe knows money, arms and ships will flow to back our decisions.

How well has the League prospered? In Turkey she failed to carry out her purpose because the allies disagreed and today vanquished Turkey is a power in European politics.

In the reparations question between Germany and France, the League was powerless to reach conclusions. In fact, the League divides itself into parties at interest, no nation has confidence in another, and fair just conclusions seem impossible. England has one purpose and France another.

There is one nation that did not join the League. America has been looking on, hoping to be helpful. Her citizens have contributed some $200,000 per month toward the refugees, the product of the mistakes of the allies in Turkey. Millions of dollars' worth of food and clothing have gone from America where they were needed most.

But we have avoided taking part in the politics of Europe.

The reparations problem became critical. America was appealed to as an impartial arbitrator, as a friend to all the opposing interests. Europe was ready to listen. Europe has confidence in America because we give and do not take, a perfectly new policy to them.

The "Davies plan" was offered by private parties, accepted, put into execution. A New York banker, riding across the ocean with me, told me the Davies plan did not mean the unlocking of $200,000,000 of capital in Europe only, but it made the foundation for safe investment of many millions more of American capital in Europe, to furnish the working capital of industrial Europe, capital to provide the comforts and necessities which Europe is now doing without. To put money in the pockets of the workmen of Europe means a customer for an increased amount of food.

Perhaps the Davies plan will reflect itself in America, and help us solve our agricultural problem.

At any rate, either to help ourselves or to help Europe, I am satisfied we are in an ideal position, far better than if we were a party to the League. We are considered impartial. We are looked upon as an arbitrator. We enjoy the affection and friendship of Europe, because we are not entangled.

The wisest decision since Lincoln's time was the decision of the League, can people stay out of the League. We have refrained from political complications. We can act as an impartial friend. Perhaps we can show them by example and suggestion that taking territory by force is the root of their trouble. Perhaps fair dealing among nations, accepting the consent of the governed, may be adopted in Europe. Then these nations can afford to disarm.

These European nations better abolish conquest, better stop stealing from each other. They have shown their citizens that it is easier to take than to earn, and that principle of taking without compensation is growing within the nations. The people are taking from each other. Socialism is rampant in Europe. Property in Russia has been divided up without compensation to the owners. Land in Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria and Roumania has been divided with little compensation to the owners. One hundred and ninety-two members of the English Parliament were reported to me as Socialists politically. Property has not been secure in Europe. And the example has been set by the nations in taking from each other.

Let every American rejoice that wages are high in the United States, that every man may accumulate property here. That's the cure of Socialism. No property-owner will join a party that proposes to destroy property rights.

To anyone who has been in Europe, America seems to have no problems. We are a happy, rich people, confronted with the problem of too much food. When you are in Europe viewing people on short rations, you know then that America is blessed.

The path for Europe is to give up conquest, then disarm. The history of the Harding administration will be written fifty years from now and it will contain one of the brightest pages in history. President Harding pointed the way when he called the first disarmament conference. Fifty years from now the history of the abolition of war in the world may have been written and that call by President Harding will be recorded as the first step toward the glorious consummation. Patiently wisely, conservatively President Coolidge proceeds with the work.

The President avoids political complications in Europe. A few months ago Japan said to us "Don't pass your Immigration Bill, it might produce serious consequences." That proved sufficient interference in our affairs. The Senate acted immediately, and the House refused to consider delay. Bitterness in Japan is the result.

Just so, if we were in the League of Nations. Our actions there would lose us the friendship, the confidence, the affection of the people of Europe, as we would not be able to be helpful as we are proving ourselves to be out of the League. Animosity and bitterness would follow our participation and the nations would feel toward us as they feel toward each other, a situation to be avoided.

ROBERT F. HARPER DIES SATURDAY

Robert F. Harper, 74, well known retired farmer, died at his home, 247 North King Street, at 11:20 Saturday night of paralysis. Stricken while seated at the dinner table in his home at noon Wednesday, Mr. Harper's condition was serious from the first.

A life long resident of Greene County, Mr. Harper lived on a farm until about thirteen years ago, when he retired and with his wife made his home ever since in this city. Surviving her his widow, Mrs. Margaret Harper, and one brother, William N. Harper of North Detroit Street.

Mr. Harper was a leading member of the Second United Presbyterian Church where funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sayre of North King Street are announcing the birth of a baby daughter. The baby was born at the home Sunday morning and is the fifth child in the family.

Miss Helen Sayre, who is a student at St. Mary's College, South Bend, Ind., returned to her home here Friday. Miss Sayre has been ill for several weeks, following an attack of influenza suffered while at school. She will recuperate at her home here before returning to school.

The Greene County W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. W. O. Curtis, South Detroit Street, Tuesday from 9:30 until 4 o'clock. There will be a covered dish luncheon at noon.

RECIPES WE HAVE TESTED

The Gazette-Republican has a number of home tried recipes handed in by women of the city at the time of the Gazette-Republican Home Makers Cooking School recently conducted in this city. These recipes will be published each day under the above heading until all of the recipes presented at that time have been used. Women of the city and county are invited to send

COLLEGE AID TO BUSINESS WOMAN BUT NOT ESSENTIAL

London, Oct. 13.—Are universally trained women or women who have not had the advantage of a university education better fitted for a business career? This is the question that Lady Rhonda, Britain's greatest business woman, answered recently in a speech delivered at Christiana.

"I believe," said Viscountess Rhonda, "that it is desirable that a majority of the persons who occupy the posts of responsibility in the higher branches of the commercial or industrial world should have a university training. I should like to see the general framework of business built up of such persons, because I believe that would prove to be for the advantage of the business world."

"I should not like to see a university training regarded as a sine qua non in business, and I shall be surprised if for a great many years to come the men at the very top of the tree are, generally speaking, those who have received a university training. All the same if a person has the money to get a university training before going into business, then I am sure he or she will be wise to do so."

"The advantages of a university training are, or should be, these: Firstly, it helps, or should help, to give a broad view of life and of the world at large. Secondly, a trained mind should help a person to take a balanced and unbiased view of any affair; it helps, or should help, to keep his complexes in order. Thirdly, it gives self-confidence and because it does this a university training seems to be even more valuable to a woman than a man."

"As against these advantages I would suggest that there is sometimes danger of a degree being looked upon as a substitute for brains—which it is not. And further, that there is a tendency among university women to feel an actual distaste for trade—the name of commerce repels them. Now this last objection is a serious one. It is serious, in the first place, because it prevents university women from attempting to push their way into commerce. But it is even more serious because, if by chance women holding such views do get into commerce, they are pretty certain not to make a success of it. There is no place in business for the young woman who prides herself on not having a commercial mind."

Mrs. D. S. Ervin, Mrs. J. Carl Marshall and Mrs. Getrude Peters attended the Kuderata Club meeting at Cedarville, Thursday.

THE BUCKEYE PROTECTS

Itself Against Loss by Every Kind of Bond and Insurance

Total policies for all kinds of protection amount to $2,600,000.00, including loss of registered mail, forgery of certificates of deposit, checks, holdup, fire, cyclone, or misappropriation of funds by any of its staff.

THE BUCKEYE'S 5 per cent time certificates of deposit are an ideal investment, secured by first mortgages on homes, and the extra security of a reserve fund of over $1,000,000.00.

THE BUCKEYE'S 5 per cent compound interest certificates allow the interest to compound with the principal semi-annually, thus increasing in value without care or attention.

Every Season Brings Its One Best Opportunity and Hosts of Value
Wise Women will wait no longer to supply Their Autumn Dress and Coat Requirement

New frocks for a new season there must be—and surely no woman needs be reminded of a fact so self assertive.

How important it is then, with Autumn bringing her countless demands upon one's dress allowance, to consider every expenditure carefully and well. To women so inclined this announcement is of immediate and urgent importance for it carries a positive assurance of amazing savings.

Right at the opening of the season—just at the time when every woman is busy with perplexing wardrobe problems—

You're going to wonder when you see these dresses, just how such new styles at the very threshold of their popularity can be possibly purchased at these prices. If they were bought in the regular channels they could not. These groups represent special purchase dress value than you would ordinarily expect. There are several colors included in this group of dresses, such as cocoa, brown, navy.

SPECIALLY PRICED $17.50

Wool Jersey, Twills and Flannel Dresses

Feeling that you are more interested in the dress values than how they were made possible we will omit the cause. The brilliant and varying mood of the style tendencies are here in variety of style at an extreme sacrifice of price. Wool Jersey Dresses in the famous "Queen Make" with clever collar and cuffs, in practically all colors.

Price $10.00

Cleverly made Flannel Dresses in several colors.

$10.95

Fine Twill Dresses in Navy and Brown with touches of bright embroidery.

WINTER COATS

While emphasis is placed upon the extreme lowness of the prices you will notice upon investigation that these coats belong in the higher priced class. These coats are made of plain and blocked polaires in several shades. All are neatly and serviceably lined.

Price $13.95

1,300-MILE CANOE TRIP VIA OCEAN ROUTE.

GEORGE H.G. SMITH, INTL.

George H. G. Smith, a mining engineer of Toronto, Can., has arrived in New York after a 1,300-mile canoe trip from Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia. His canoe weighed but fifty-five pounds, was fifteen feet long and had a beam of thirty-two inches. He made the journey in forty-three days of actual paddling. He declared he intends to cross the Atlantic Ocean in the canoe to win a bet.

Henry Cook, alias Garbutt, alias Connors, paroled Joliet, Ill., convict, has been indicted in Pasadena, Cal., for the murder of Mrs. Clifton R. Huhn, wealthy Chicago and Pasadena society woman, who was slain in her Pasadena home with a pistol and hammer. The police say Mrs. Huhn had befriended the former convict, and that thousands of dollars' worth of jewels were missing after her death. F. R. Gibson, a wealthy relative of Mrs. Huhn, had attended a dinner she gave to him, Cook and her adopted son, Gibson told the police he was in the bathroom when the murder was committed.

B COMPANY TAKES LAURELS IN DRILL INSPECTION AT HOME

Winning the laurels as the best drilled company in the cadet battalion at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, during a competitive drill Sunday morning, Company B, under command of Captain Ora Smith, was awarded a silver plated sabre, the gift of the inspecting officers.

Major Gilbert R. Paschall, commander of the Second Battalion of the 166th Infantry, of Marion, was the inspecting officer assisted by the following corps: Captain Walter Johnson, Lieutenant Frank Wells, Lieutenant John Berger and Sergeant Harry Carter.

The drill was held on the campus at 10 o'clock in the forenoon in the presence of officials and the entire population of the Home and a large number of visitors. Members of the three companies of the battalion, A, B, and C, under command of Major Leroy John, military instructor at the institution, wearing their blue and grey uniforms made a fine appearance and drilled so excellently that the inspecting officers said they were confronted with a hard task in declaring the winning company.

The cadet band, which recently won honors as the best band in the parade which featured the annual encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars at Atlantic City, participated in the appearance of the battalion and also took part in the dress parade which was held Sunday afternoon and at which Major Paschall presented the sabre to Captain Smith of the winning outfit.

In making the presentation, Major Paschall complimented the battalion upon its excellent work. The inspection was the first which has been held of the Home Cadets in three years and it was made following the request of Major John. The inspecting officers were guests of Major John at dinner.

Visitors from many parts of the state were present at the Home for the dress parade in the afternoon, many former residents of the Home driving here to see the cadets.

The inspection was originally set for two weeks ago, but a downpour of rain prevented its being held.

OHIO FARM AGENTS CALLED TO CONFER AT ANNUAL SESSION

Agricultural extension agents, now in 86 of Ohio's 88 counties, will attend their annual four-day school next week, October 14 to 17 inclusive. Ranking as instructors of the Ohio State University, they return to Columbus for intensive study of subjects fundamental to their jobs as educators.

Economic teaching, and administrative problems are the subjects stressed by the conference program. Dr. George F. Warren, head of the farm management and agricultural department at Cornell University, will give four talks on economic problems confronting farmers today.

Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of the State University, is on the extension conference program this year for four talks on the Smith-Lever legislation, the Congressional action which ten years ago started agricultural extension work throughout the nation. Dr. B. H. Bode, of the college of Education at Ohio State, will present to the agents in lecture and discussion.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effect in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 7878 Koch Bldg., Kansas City Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Gazette and The Republican who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. The coupon below is convenient.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

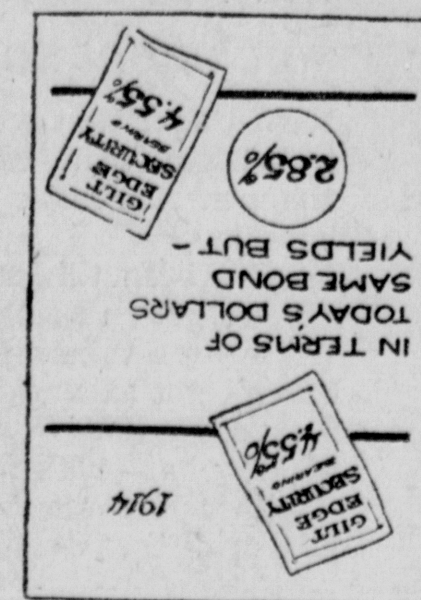

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

some fundamental methods and objectives in education. "Appealing to People Through Their Interests" is the subject for one of two talks by C. E. Lively, professor of rural sociology at the university.

Robert G. Patterson, secretary of the Ohio Public Health Association, Grace Frysinger of the Washington extension office, and Ralph A. Felton, rural sociologist from Cornell, are also on the program. Alfred Vivian, dean of the College of Agriculture at Columbus, will open the conference Tuesday morning.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

There is no such thing as "permanent investing" if profits are to be taken regularly and the investment income kept up.

If a man were to have invested ten years ago in excellent and representative securities, he would be the loser by holding them until today, although they had all met interest payments regularly and would probably continue to do so.

The reason why great losses in holdings of gilt edge securities would result if held over a ten year period is that the amount of income does not at all consist of the number of dollars derived from the investment, but from exchange value of those dollars represented by commodities which the dollars would buy.

In 1914 the average yield of ten gilt edge bonds was 4.45 per cent. The average net return today, based on that same return, but considering what that return would buy in terms of today's dollar, is 2.85 per cent.

CECIL FANNING IS SINGER WHO CAN BE EASILY UNDERSTOOD

No matter how admirable the voice of a singer may be, or how beautiful the music, much of the real enjoyment of a performance is lost if the words of the text cannot be understood.

Programs giving the words of the songs help out to a certain extent, but if the audience has to divide its attention between the singer and book of words, the result is as irritating to the listener as to the performing artist.

When Cecil Fanning, the American baritone, sings, however, the hearer can easily discard his program, for this well known singer has the unusual faculty of making every syllable carry across the footlights with great clarity, regardless of the language in which he is singing. And his repertoire includes songs in English, French, Italian and German.

When Mr. Fanning sings Negro spirituals it is hard to believe that he is not from the South, for he produces with the utmost fidelity the dialect of the Southern Negro.

Mr. Fanning will sing at the opera house here October 17. Accompanying him at the piano will be Harry Brown Turpin, the Dayton pianist, and Mr. Fanning's teacher.

TELLS CONDITIONS IN JUGO-SLOVAKIA AT MEETING HERE

Children in Jugo-Slavia have lost the knowledge of how to play. This, said Miss Ruth Jones, of Cincinnati, a Junior Red Cross organizer, who recently returned from that war-racked land where she was engaged in the work of organizing the little folks, and are like little old men and women. That is what suffering, privation and war has done for them."

Miss Ruth Jones, of Cincinnati, a Junior Red Cross organizer, who recently returned from that war-racked land where she was engaged in the work of organizing the little folks, said this to Greene County teachers attending a meeting in the Assembly room of the Court House Saturday.

She told of the orphanages in Slavia full of war orphans, thin and starved, with war and ragged clothing, and faces had and old beyond their years.

Some of the older children had seen all the rest of their families slain before their eyes by the enemy. There is no such joy or happiness among the Jugo-Slavian children that there is in our American children," said Miss Jones.

She told of organizing one desolate little group and contributing some of the Junior Fund to equipment for a playground. The village people preferred a workshop for the children to learn a trade. It took considerable explanation to convince the people that the Junior Fund was money contributed by happy American children to promote happiness in the desolate lives of these war-blighted children.

The playground was established and the village people paid for part of it. The Christmas boxes sent from the Juniors in this country are a cause of happy anticipation for months prior to their arrival. The opening of boxes give the children more happiness than they have during the year. "One little fellow with handkerchief and a toy showed real enthusiasm since I had him," said Miss Jones.

exchange of international courtesy which some of the country schools will take up this year means more to the foreign child than to the American child. When a stranger enters the school room in Jugo-Slavia the children stand at attention and salute. When school is dismissed they do not run and shout, instead you would see them standing quietly in little groups not knowing how to play and lacking the vitality to exercise. The children are marked with many years of privation and suffering caused by the war. It is American ideals and ideas that they "need," said the speaker.

The Junior Red Cross idea of world wide fellowship among children and the need for a Happy Childhood if they are to develop into the best type of citizens was so successfully demonstrated that when Miss Jones left the country at the end of the year the Government took over the work and is financing it now.

During her stay her expenses were paid by the American Red Cross and the money contributed by the American children was used only for constructive child work such as playgrounds, milk stations and permanent programs in the various villages.

Portfolios showing the letters from foreign schools, dolls dressed in the native costumes, handwork and art work sent to the American schools were displayed. Teachers wishing further information about Junior work can call the Red Cross, it is announced.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IS SUCCESS FIRE CHIEF SAYS

Fire Chief T. B. Claire Monday commended the co-operation of the people with regard to observance of Fire Prevention Week, which was closed Sunday and said that the co-operation of the children in the schools, the fire insurance companies in displaying posters and advertising against fire, showed that the people are taking an interest in preventing the fire waste.

The local fire department made twenty-five inspections in the business district in order to lessen the usual number of hazards that exist throughout the city, and Chief Claire reported that the inspections were entirely satisfactory. Follow up inspections will be made this week, according to the chief.

Chief Claire, in giving some advice with regard to the prevention of fires, said: "A clean house seldom burns. Cleanliness is more important than Godliness, as far as the prevention of fire is concerned. Rubbish and dirt, especially in cellars, under stairs, in attics and other out of the way places are the worst enemies of the fire preventionist as well as of those interested in sanitary conditions. Besides engendering spontaneous combustion they furnish ready fuel once a fire is started."

COUPLE VICTIMS OF BANDITS ON XENIA- WILMINGTON PIKE

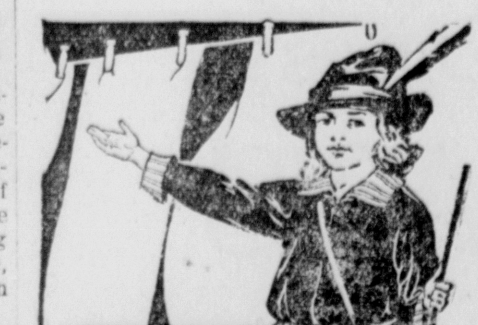

Fred Benlar, and Miss Jessie Striker, Wilmington, were victims of masked bandits Sunday night about 8:30 o'clock on the Wilmington and Xenia Pike near the corporation line of Wilmington, when two unknown white men, one of them masked, driving a Buick roadster, stopped Benlar's machine at the point of a gun and robbed Benlar of a gold watch and chain and $24 and Miss Striker of a gold wrist watch and two valuable rings.

Benlar reported the holdup to Chief Ben South of Wilmington after driving to Police Headquarters and was Benlar described one of the men as being tall, weighing about 175 pounds, with a dark cap, slouched over his head, and unmasked, while the other was shorter, about the same weight, with no cap on his head but wearing a black mask over his face. His hair was dark and combed the pompadour style.

Fire Prevention Week

Insurance Prevents Loss!

Five Fire Prevention Suggestions

- (1) Nothing more alarming and dangerous than a burning flue. SOOT DESTROYER prevents this and saves coal.
- (2) An extra HOSE FAUCET with short piece of hose placed near furnace is available at a minute's notice in case of fire. Also convenient for wetting down coal.
- (3) ROOF PAINT AND ROOF CEMENT fire resisting.
- (4) ASBESTOS PIPE COVERING, Mill Board and thin sheet asbestos suitable for covering furnace and stove pipes. Saves heat and prevents fire.
- (5) FURNACE AND IRON CEMENT, Stove Lining, Asbestos Plaster, Silica Soda and Patching Plaster, all of which are necessary to put your heating apparatus in safe condition and at same time saves your fuel bill.

Remember this: by spending a small sum you save hundreds of dollars not only in damages by fire, but in fuel and in damage caused by smoky furnaces and stoves.

WISCONSIN'S PRIDE JOLTED BY OHIOANS AT DAIRY MEETING

Ohio has jolted Wisconsin's pride, and in Milwaukee at that, according to Ohio dairymen who have just returned from the National Dairy Show, held this year in Wisconsin for the first time in several years.

Though Wisconsin leads the nation in cheese production, whereas Ohio produces only 2 per cent of the total, the two states were tied for first honors at the Milwaukee show. And Ohio dairymen had on exhibit more Swiss cheese than Wisconsin did.

Of the three gold medals won by Ohio the one for Swiss cheese caused the most surprise. Wisconsin produces 75 per cent and Ohio 12-13 per cent of the country's Swiss cheese supply. The Ohio Swiss cheese, exhibited by the Deis Foreign Dairy Co., of Dover, won out largely because it had been made with the bacteria culture discovered by the Federal Department of Agriculture, in the behalf of R. B. Stoltz, professor of dairy industry at the Ohio State University.

"Until recently home-made rennet and luck were necessary to produce a Swiss cheese that could compete with the imported product," Professor Stoltz explains. "But with the bacterial organism called '62' the large holes in the perfect Swiss cheese are scientifically assured. Ohio's showing in this class is a triumph for scientific methods."

The Hamilton Cheese Co., of Columbus won first place on its Italian cheese, and the Moore and Ross Milk Co. won first in the class for cottage cheese.

WILMINGTON EASILY BEATS CEDARVILLE

Wilmington College displayed classy football against Cedarville College at Wilmington Saturday afternoon, and took Cedarville into camp by a 49 to 0 score.

Battered by injuries to three of their best men in the first quarter, and clearly outclassed by the brand of football displayed by Wilmington, Cedarville had but little chance to score and was kept on the defensive almost the entire game. Wilmington made seventeen first downs to three for Cedarville.

Wilmington scored two touchdowns in the first quarter on a series of line bucks and end runs, and followed up by scoring one more in the second quarter, kicking goal after each score. Again in the third and fourth quarters Wilmington changed its tactics and switching to the aerial game, scored twice in the third quarter on long passes and twice in the fourth period on a long pass and an intercepted pass.

Currie, formerly Xenia Central High School star, suffered torn ligaments in his shoulder in the first play of the game, and Rockhold, guard sustained a broken ankle a few minutes later. Arthur was put out of the game on a penalty.

Although outweighed twenty-five pounds to a man, Cedarville never gave up trying while Anderson at end for Cedarville was a bright luminary in the game.

Wilmington boasts of a good line this year with eight former Wilmington High School stars among the twenty-eight men on the squad and was simply too good for Cedarville.

Cedarville hopes for better success next Saturday against Defiance at Defiance.

Cedarville's lineup: Taylor, le; Brown, lt; Rockhold, lg; Mulchay, c; Snell, rg; Arthur, rt; Anderson, re; Spahoman, q; Adair, lb; Stoltz, rh; and Currie, th.

LOCAL PACER WINS MENTION

Silver Pointer, owned by J. W. Faulkner, of this city, again came in for mention in E. L. Churchill's article in the Dayton Journal Sunday morning under his column, "With the Trotters and Pacers."

Churchill said: "Silver Pointer, 2:08 1/4, bred by Samuel Beverly Bishop, of Lebanon, was one of the crack pacers of the Ohio fair circuits. The horse was sold by his breeder to trainer Lou Kell, of Lebanon, who in turn disposed of the fast wiggler to Mr. J. W. Faulkner, Xenia, his present owner. Silver Pointer was the big money winning pacer of Joe Hagler's stable, and he was trained over the Xenia track where Mr. Hagler makes his headquarters."

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

MARY HAYWARD, a famous beauty, for six months has been nominally the wife of

SIR NIGEL CAVENDISH, who promised her to release her at the end of that time, knowing that she loved

BRUCE GILLIAN, and had married him during a misunderstanding with Bruce. Leaving Nigel at a camp in the Canadian Rockies, she came to Seattle to join Bruce and make arrangements for their marriage annulment. But

WILMA RAYMOND, a friend of Nigel's, sends to the more sensational newspapers a story stating that she has eloped with Bruce, recalling the sensational murder years ago of a man whose name was linked with Mary's. Determined to clear everything up, Mary leaves for the East without waiting for Bruce, leaving him a note insisting that she cannot marry him because of the publicity she has attracted. She goes to Maine to find CAMILLA WAITE, who cleared her of suspicion at the time of the murder by claiming that they were together that night. Camilla tells a group of their friends that Mary killed Neale Phillips, but refuses to tell more until Jim Atwood, a cousin of Mary's, says that he will finish the story if she doesn't.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XLVII—A STRANGE CONFESSION.

JIM ATWOOD faced Camilla for a moment more. She could not speak, nor could Mary. Their thoughts were held by the same question. How could he possibly know what had happened the night of Neale Phillips' murder?

"You won't tell?" he said to Camilla at last, sternly. She shook her head. "Then I shall. You've told just enough so that the rest must come out—I think that it would come with better grace from you than from me. Sure you don't want to do it yourself?"

A long moment's pause, a moment in which Camilla stood with clenched hands, glaring at Jim, and Mary leaned weakly against the piano at which Vera Atwood was seated.

"Oh, all right," Camilla exclaimed at last, defiantly. "I'll tell. I'd written some letters to Neale—fool letters, silly things, before he was engaged to Mary, and afterward, when I was simply sick with jealousy. You see, I loved Neale. He wouldn't give them back to me. You all thought Neale was rich. Well, he wasn't. He had money, but nowhere near what he spent. He got dreadfully in the hole when he was caught in that oil slump."

"He threatened me then, saying that he'd give the letters to 'Town Talk' if I didn't buy them back from him. I sent him some money, but he wanted more. So I confessed to Mary. We were friends, and when I asked her to get them from him she said she would. She was furious at him, and said that she'd break her engagement to marry him. I was rather glad of that, thought I might get him back, you see. I never could understand why he wanted to marry her, when she had no money and I had loads. He was infatuated, though; I wouldn't have minded so much if he hadn't been so perfectly mad about her."

"Sometimes the whole thing amused me. I couldn't help thinking what a shock it would be to her and her aunt when they got Mary married to Neale, to learn that he really didn't have loads of money after all. I almost wanted it to go through then. But at other times I was nearly mad, because I cared so much for him. Even though he was a cad I wanted him, you see."

"Mary went to him that night and had things out with him. She demanded the letters, and told him what she thought of him. She told him too that she wouldn't marry him. He was wild. Oh, I saw it all—" She broke off to add: "Mary never knew that. I was at home when she got there, and she thought I'd been home all along. I was standing behind one of the portieres and heard the whole thing—afterward I drove like mad, and got home a few moments before she came."

"He seemed to be crazed when she told him that. He told her that he'd tried to blackmail me because he wanted the money to buy things for her. He'd spent every cent he owned or could borrow on things for her. Imagine how I felt when she came in wearing that gorgeous emerald and said he'd given it to her—and I knew that I'd paid for it!"

"He ran over to his desk and snatched up the package of letters and gave it to her. With his other hand he caught up a revolver. He held it to his head, and Mary grabbed it. It went off. That was how it happened that she killed him."

"Oh, Camilla, I didn't know—I didn't want you to tell so much—just that I didn't mean to do it—that he had papers of yours—" Mary sobbed, ran to her. But Camilla drew coldly away.

"I hope you're satisfied now," she said quietly. "You've ruined my life—does that make you happy?" "Camilla!" She turned quickly at that voice. It was Ned Houston, the man she had spoken to Mary about, who came quickly across the room to her side. "Camilla, this isn't going to make any difference between us, is it? You know that I care for you; I realize that you were just a youngster when this thing took place. Do you think I care about it?"

She waited alone for the train.

He took her in his arms, there, before them all. Mary turned and ran from the room, but could not escape the group that was clamoring to tell her that she mustn't think they felt any differently about her; that, no matter what had happened or might happen, they were her friends.

She escaped at last to her own room, with only the Atwoods as company.

"There's just one thing I want to know," Vera announced, as the door closed behind them. "Jim Atwood, how did you know what happened that night at Neale's? How did you know about those letters of Cam's?"

"I didn't," he replied, as he closed Mary's suitcase for her. "I didn't have any idea that she'd written him. I just had a hunch. I'd met them motoring in the park once or twice, and seen them lunching together in a little place where they wouldn't run into any of their friends. And I could see today that she'd never tell what she knew unless somebody forced her to. So I took a chance."

Later, waiting alone for the train, Mary thought of that, and tears came to her eyes. Dear Jim and Vera—some day, when she had made a place for herself in the world, she'd come back to them!

YOUTH PERMITTED TO PLAY FOOTBALL

Toledo, O., Oct. 13—Howard Johnson, Scott High School football player, was granted a temporary injunction by Judge Martin restraining the Ohio High School Athletic Association from interfering with the playing on the Scott team. The Ohio board had ruled Johnson was ineligible because he failed to attend school the semester before the football season.

Johnson, in his petition, claimed he was out of school because of sickness. This is the second player on the Scott team to secure an injunction. Meese, the star and captain, being the first. The Ohio High School Athletic Association has engaged attorneys and will fight the permanent injunction.
